HomeServices Relocation Recognizes New Certified Professional (CRP®)

Gary Conerly Earns Worldwide (ERC®) CRP® Designation

MINNEAPOLIS (July 26, 2018) - HomeServices Relocation, a division of HomeServices of America, a Berkshire Hathaway affiliate, is pleased to announce that Gary Conerly, Director of Business Development, has earned the Certified Relocation Professional (CRP®) designation through Worldwide ERC®, the workforce mobility association. Gary is one of 119 members earning the Certified Relocation Professional (CRP®) designation. On a scale from 200 to 800 points, approximately 70% of the 169 candidates who took the exam earned a passing score of 500 or higher.

The CRP® exam tests candidates' command of corporate mobility policies and programs, real estate, tax considerations, transferee counseling, and other services. Exam content is developed under the guidance and expertise of a Worldwide ERC® CRP® Certification Review Board. Gary stated, "I am very pleased to have earned the CRP accreditation and thankful to HomeServices Relocation for the company's commitment to continuing education. Never stop learning!"

2017-2018 CRP® Certification Review Board Chairwoman Stefanie Schreck, SCRCP, SGMS, notes that "The Certified Relocation Professional® designation is widely credited with raising the bar in our industry, helping to build a consistent, uniform understanding of the many and intricate practices that employee mobility entails. Those who earn and maintain this prestigious credential demonstrate not only a mastery of skills, but a commitment to ongoing professional development and education, for the betterment of the industry and the employees and families we serve. We proudly welcome the newest CRPs® into our growing community."

The CRP® program was introduced in 1990 to formally recognize individuals who demonstrate a comprehensive knowledge of the principles and practices of U.S. employee relocation. More than 11,000 individuals have earned the credential since its inception. CRPs® retain their designation by maintaining membership in the association and earning 30 recertification credit hours within each three-year period following their initial certification, ensuring they remain current on evolving industry trends.
