HomeServices Relocation Places Added Focus on Talent Mobility

Steven John Earns Worldwide ERC® GMS-T Designation

MINNEAPOLIS (June 23, 2015) - HomeServices Relocation, a division of HomeServices of America, a Berkshire Hathaway affiliate today congratulated Steven John, president and CEO of HomeServices Relocation, for earning the distinction of Global Mobility Specialist – Talent Mobility, or GMS-T. This is a significant designation in the relocation industry as it focuses on talent management programs designed to ensure that employers are able to recruit, develop, and retain the talent needed for success. John is among the top tier of global mobility professionals who hold the prestigious GMS-T designation.

The GMS-T further enhances John's extensive relocation expertise and leadership in supporting organizational talent needs by identifying and responding to key drivers of talent mobility. The GMS-T allows John to bring a deeper level of guidance and support in advising clients to implement best practices and discoveries to manage costs, improve assignee success and better mitigate compliance risks. During his 15 year tenure serving the relocation industry, he has consistently promoted mobility as a critical strategic component of a well-managed talent management program.

"I am honored to earn this designation from Worldwide ERC®," said John. "Organizations and individuals must continue to learn and grow to stay at the top of the profession. I look forward to utilizing these advanced GMS-T concepts in providing strategic mobility solutions for our clients."
